CCC CREWS SENT TO PASO ROBLES EARTHQUAKE

Two dozen corpsmembers from the California Conservation Corps have been dispatched to Paso Robles in the aftermath of Monday's earthquake.

At the request of the state Office of Emergency Services, corpsmembers from San Luis Obispo and Santa Maria will provide logistical support at the Mid-State Fairgrounds in Paso Robles. The crews are expected to work for one to two weeks.

Additional crews based in San Luis Obispo are available to assist as needed.

The California Conservation Corps is a state agency hiring young men and women for a year of natural resource work and emergency response. Over the years, the CCC has provided thousands of hours of earthquake recovery work following the 1994 Northridge earthquake, the 1989 Loma Prieta earthquake and many others.
